wash hands

Memory tip

It's like you're washing your hands.

When to use the sign

You can sign WASH HANDS when you wash your baby's hands or clean them with a wipe. You can also do this sign when she is watching you wash your hands.

When my second daughter was about 18 months old, we decided to bring her big sister's play kitchen down from the attic. She was so excited! The first thing she did was toddle over to it, point to the little sink, and sign WASH HANDS.

Rub your hands together.

eat

Bring your fingers and thumb together and tap them to your lips a few times.

Memory tip

It's like you're putting food into your mouth.

When to use the sign

EAT is a great sign to introduce when your baby starts eating solid food. Sign EAT when you suspect your baby is getting hungry and while he is eating. You can also sign EAT if he is watching you or a pet eating.

What to look for

Your baby might sign this by sticking his finger (or even his whole hand) in his mouth. He might also pat his face or head.

ball

Curve all the fingers of both hands and bring them toward each other a few times in front of your body.

Memory tip

It's like showing the shape of an invisible ball.

When to use the sign

Balls are a fun and easy way to engage little ones in play. You can get a plush ball for a younger baby and a bouncy one for an older child. Pass the ball back and forth. Sign BALL while the baby is holding it. You can even do a modified version of the sign for BALL while holding the ball in one hand: Either do half of the sign with your free hand or bring your free hand onto the ball.

What to look for Babies might sign BALL by knocking their fists together or clapping. My younger daughter signed BALL by touching her closed fist to her opposite open hand.

book

Baby Sign Language Made Easy:101 signs to Start Communicating With Your Child Now (Baby Sign Language Guides

Place your hands flat together and then open them outward.

Memory tip

It's like you are opening a book.

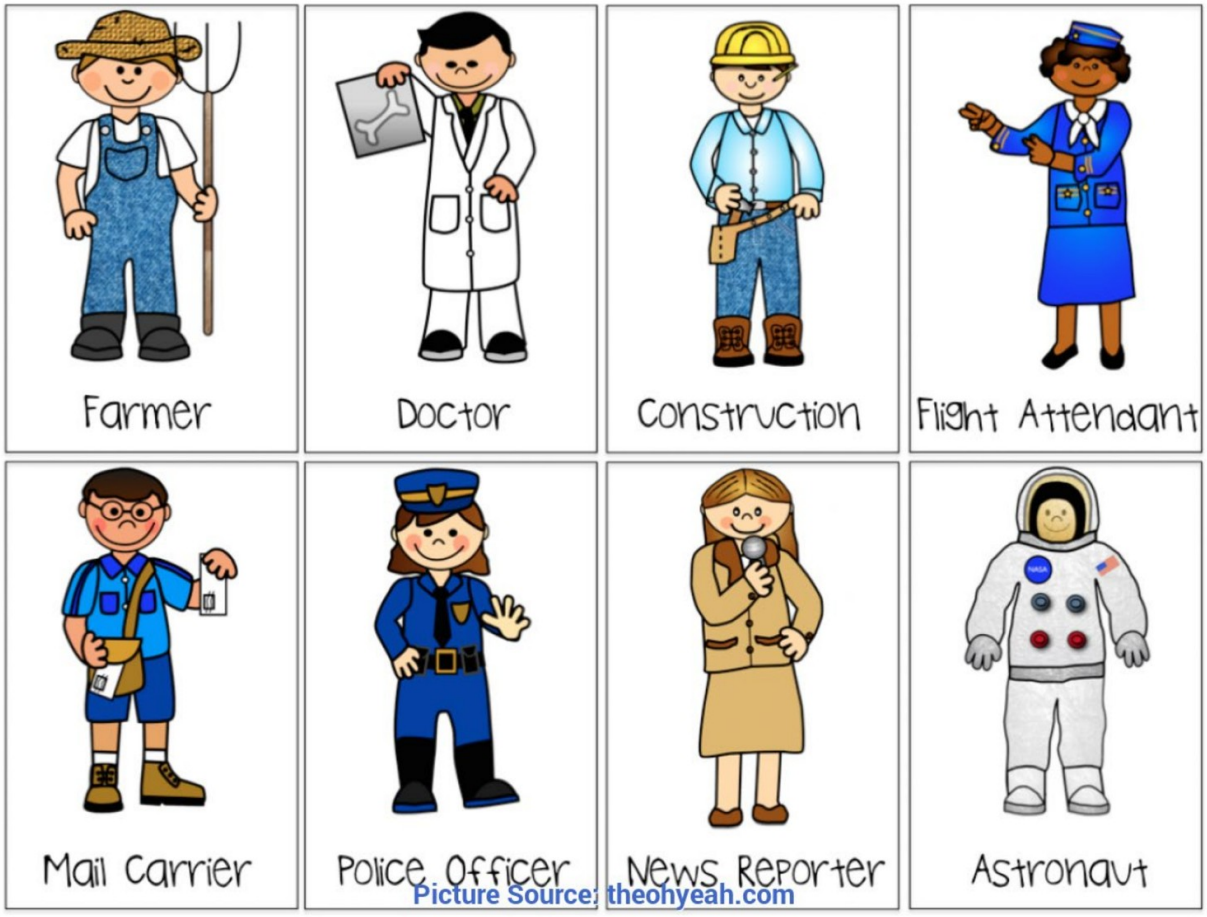

When to use the sign

Let your baby hold a board book while you talk about it. Ask, "Are you reading the BOOK?" and "Do you want me to read the BOOK to you?" Sign BOOK whenever you are reading with your baby. Books are also a great resource for introducing new words and signs.

What to look for

Your baby might sign BOOK by making one large clapping motion or by clasping her hands together. If you are using multiple signs that involve bringing the hands together, like MORE (here), BALL (here), and SHOES (here), you'll have to firefighter

Spanish - bombero (bohm-beh-roh

The firefighter sign looks like the brass badge on a firefighter's helmet. To make the sign, you take an open dominant hand and place it on your forehead with the palm facing outward.

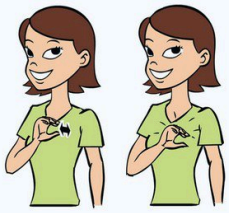

Baby Sign Language.com

police

Spanish - policia (poh-lee-see-ah)

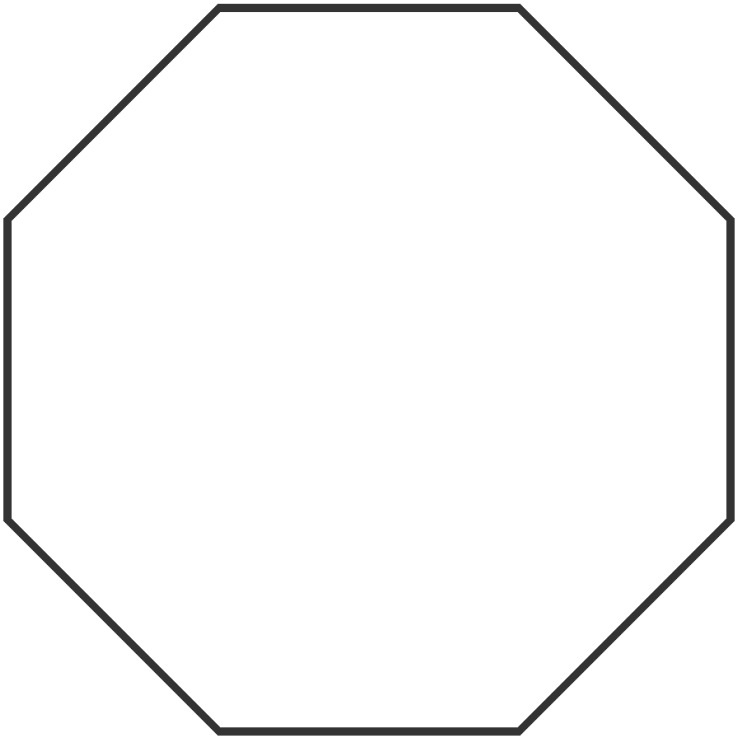

To sign police, take your dominant hand and form it into the letter 'C' in ASL. Then touch it to your right upper chest, as if forming a police badge on your shirt.

doctor

Spanish - doctor (dohk-tohr

To sign doctor, take your strong hand, curve it, and touch it to the inner wrist of your non-dominant hand, like you are taking a pulse. An alternative ASL sign for doctor is to form a letter 'D' with your dominant hand, then touch it to the inner wrist of your non-dominant hand.

dentist

Spanish - dentista (dehn-tees-tah)

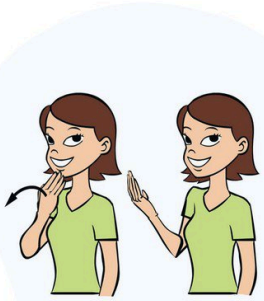

To sign dentist, crook your dominant hand's pointer finger as if you are making a drill, and point it at your teeth.

thank you

Spanish - gracias (grah-syahs)

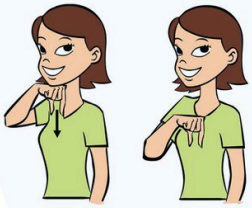

To sign thank you, extend your fingers and thumb. Touch you fingers to your chin and bring your fingers forward. It is almost like you are blowing a kiss out, to thank the person - but the sign is a bit lower.

Baby Sign Language.com

turkey

Spanish - pavo (pah-boh)

Turkey looks like outlining the wattles on a turkey. Taking your dominant hand to the bottom of your chin, wiggle the index finger and thumb pointing down.
An alternative sign for turkey is to simply move your "wattle" hand from your chin down to your chest.

cook

Sphanish - cocinero (koh-see-neh-roh)

The ASL sign for cook looks like you are flipping pancakes on a skillet. Your non-dominant hand is flat in front of your body, representing the skillet. Then hold out your dominant hand flat on top of your non-dominant hand, flip it over to reverse sides, and then flip it back.

letter(mail)

Spanish: Letter - carta (kahr-tah) Mail - correo (koh-rreh-oh)

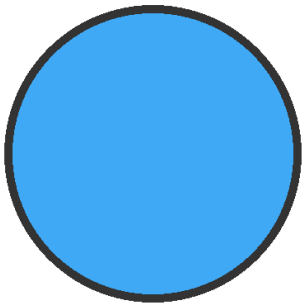

To sign letter, hold your non-dominant hand open, with palm facing up, as if you are holding an envelope. Then form your dominant hand into the ASL letter A sign, with its thumb sticking out. Touch your thumb to your lips then press it to your non-dominant hand or 'envelope', as if sticking a stamp onto the back of a letter envelope.
