farm

Spanish - granja (grahn-hah)

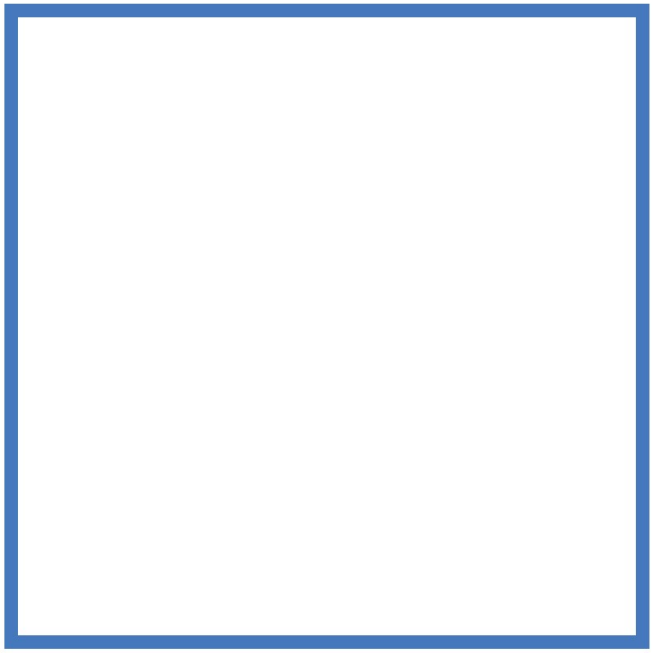

To sign farm, take your open dominant hand, and start with your thumb touching your non-dominant side. Then trace the jaw all the way around to your dominant side.

tractor

Spanish - tractor (trahk-tohr)

Tractor is signed just like truck: mimic moving a very large steering wheel.

COW

Spanish - vaca (bah-kah)

To make the sign for cow, make your hand into a fist then straighten your pinkie finger and straighten your thumb. The two extended fingers on your hand should like the horns of a cow. Take your thumb and put it by the side of your head and twist your hand around.

horse

Spanish - caballo (kah-bah-yoh)

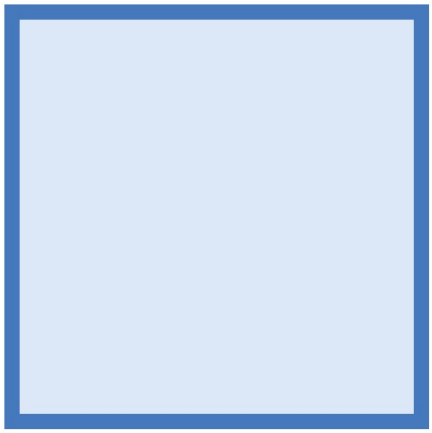

The baby sign for horse is like a horse twitching an ear to brush away a pesky fly. You start by taking your dominant hand with thumb, middle finger, and index finger extended and making an L-shape, with your other two fingers tucked in and palm facing forward. Put the thumb on your temple, and move the index finger and middle finger down and up together.

chicken

Spanish - pollo (poh-yoh)

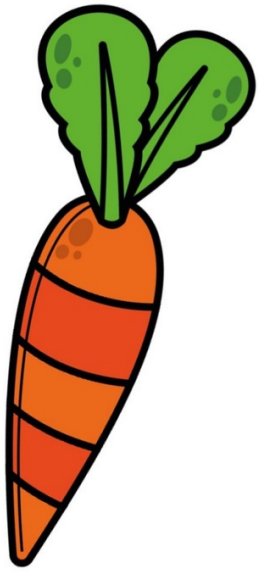

The sign for chicken looks a lot like a beak pecking the ground or scratching for food. To sign chicken, start with the bird sign. Take your thumb and index finger and make an open beak, while making the rest of your hand into a fist. Close the beak and bring it down to peck at the ground as represented by your other outstretched hand, palm facing up.

sheep

Spanish - oveja (oh-beh-hah)

The sign for sheep looks like you are shearing a sheep. You put your non-dominant hand out and across in front of your body, palm facing down, then you make your dominant hand into shears by extending your index and middle fingers out like a reclining letter 'V'.
To perform the sign, move your middle and index fingers back and forth intermittently along your non-dominant forearm, as if you were operating the shears. It's as if you're cutting the wool along the sheep's back.

Christopher Columbus

Christopher Columbus was born in Genoa, Italy in 1451. He was the oldest child in his family, with four younger brothers and sisters. When Christopher became an explorer, two of his brothers went along with him on many of his voyages.

Christopher Columbus grew up near the sea and took his first voyage at the age of eighteen. He began learning about the ocean currents and how to navigate at sea.

Columbus wanted to find a quicker route to reach India and China. Believing that the Earth was round, he planned to sail west to reach the east.

Columbus needed ships and a crew for his voyage. He went to Genoa, then Venice, but was turned down at both places. The people didn't believe that Columbus' plan would work. Then Columbus visited the king and queen of Spain in 1486 to ask for ships and aid with his voyage. They refused at first, but later agreed.

In 1492, Christopher Columbus left Spain and began his voyage. He took three ships, The Nina, the Pinta and The Santa Maria. In two months time, they reached an island which Columbus named San Salvador. Columbus thought he had reached an island of Asia. He called it The Indies and called the native people Indians.

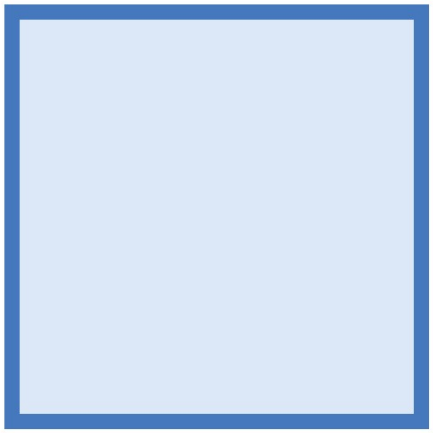

Columbus made a total of four voyages back and forth from Spain. The final voyage was made in 1502. Columbus didn't know he had discovered a new world, but today we remember Christopher Columbus as one of the first explorers to set foot on American soil.

Columbus returned to Spain and later died from an illness in 1506.

corn

Spanish - maiz (mah-ees)

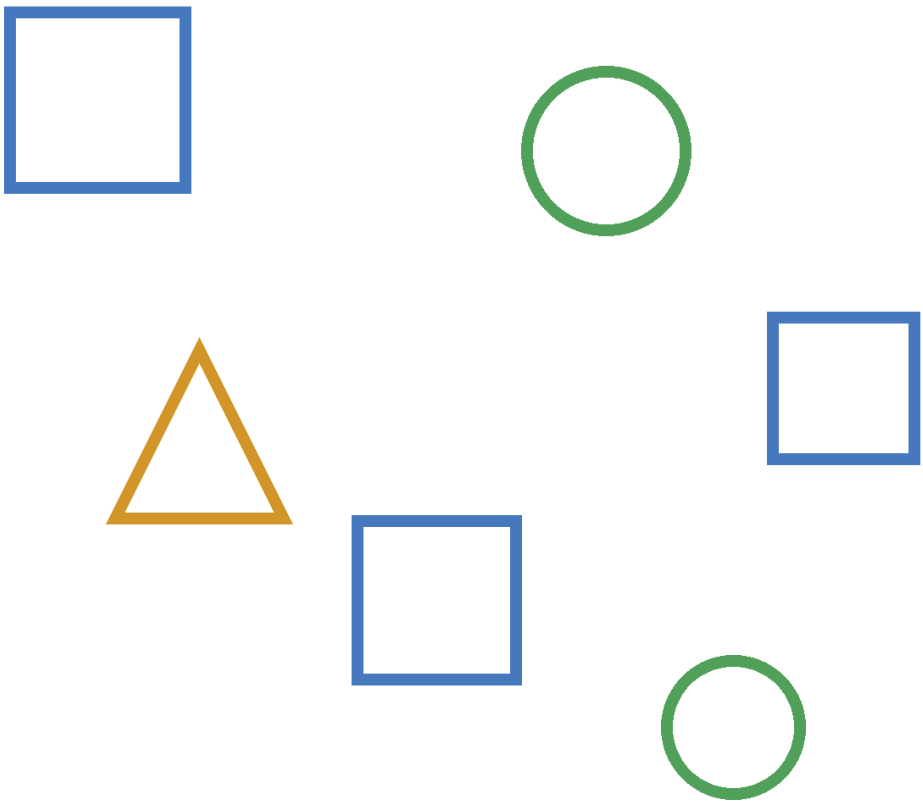

Corn in Baby Sign Language looks like you are holding a cob of corn with both open, curved hands, and munching away (sans the stream of butter dripping down your shirt). Make the sign by holding an imaginary cob of corn with both hands in front of your mouth, and nibbling along the corn with your mouth, turning your hands twice. A one-handed version (if you're carrying your baby in your other arm), is to get your pointer or index finger, hold it horizontally across your mouth, and turn it twice, again as if eating a cob of corn.

carrot

Spanish - zanahoria (sah-nah-oh-ryah)

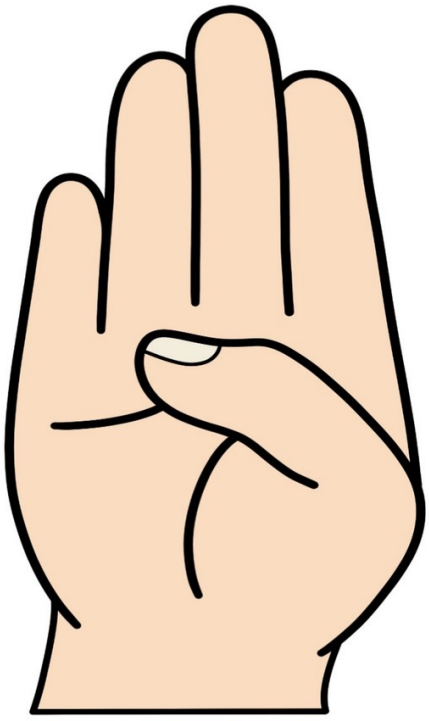

To sign carrot, close the fist of your dominant hand with thumb outside and start it off close to your mouth, as if you are holding a carrot. Then have your fist travel from the side of your mouth to about a foot in front of you, while opening and closing the fist a couple of times. It is like doing half the sign for hotdog or baloney with only one hand, and forward from your mouth, not sideways like the two latter food signs.

Spanish - calabaza (kah-Lah-bah-sah)

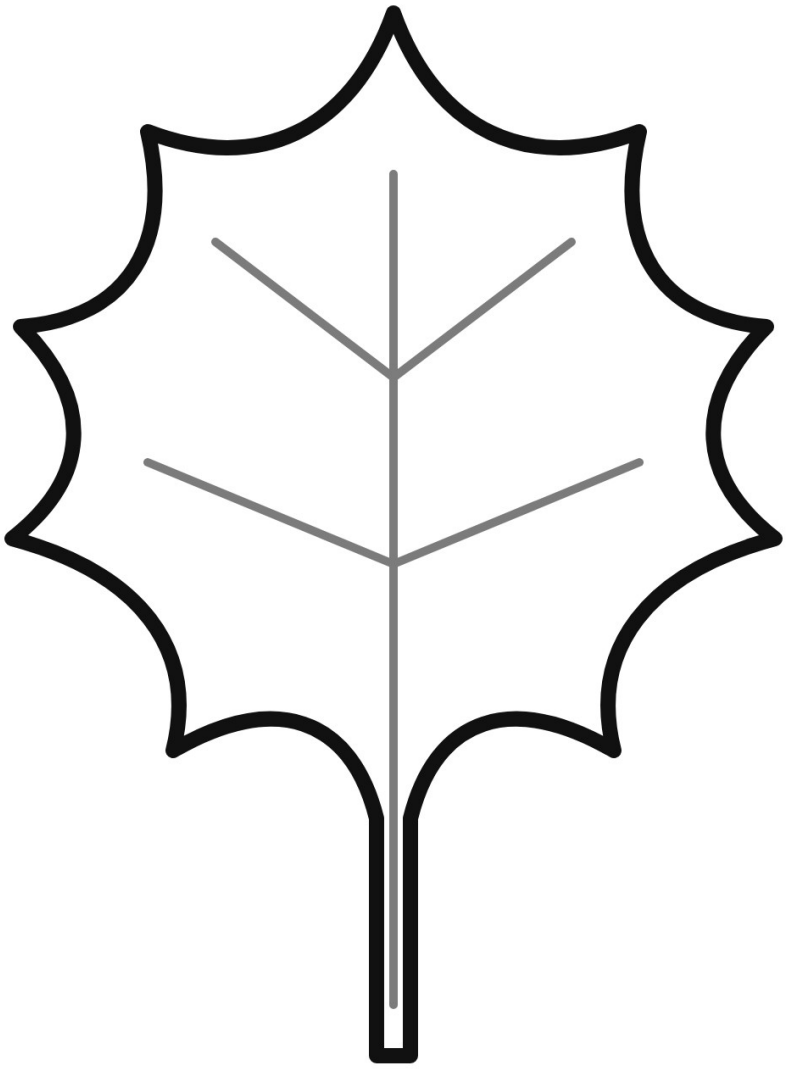

Pumpkin is signed by making your non-dominant hand into a fist and flicking it with your forefinger on your dominant hand. The sign is like you are testing the surface of pumpkin to make sure it is good.

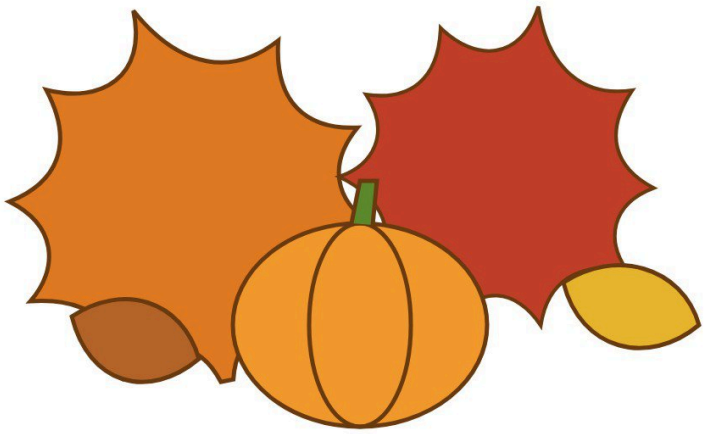

A Fall Leaf

Color it, paint it or sponge-stamp it with fall colors!

Spanish – otoño (oh-TOH-nyoh)

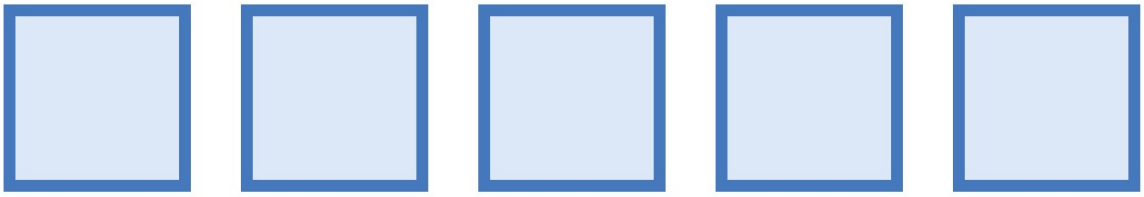

Fall is the season when leaves change color and float down from the trees. We pick pumpkins and apples, and the air gets cool.

To sign fall, hold up one arm like a tree trunk and brush your other hand down past the elbow, like a falling leaf.
